

AWAIT ARRIVAL
OF TIDAL WAVE

Crowds Gather at Sea
Side Resort to Watch
the Ocean.

NEGROES ARE SCARED

Many Visitors Leave Atlantic City Through Fear of Destruction.

SEA REMAINS CALM

(Special By Scripps-Mellae.)
Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 18.—Thousands of people are here today awaiting the arrival of the great tidal wave that it was predicted would sweep the city from the face of the earth today.

Many Watch
The resorts were all crowded early by an anxious crowd, who watched the ocean very closely. The sky thus far is clear and the ocean is calm with scarcely a ripple on it.

Negroes Frightened
A great scare was started this noon
when some one announced in the negro quarters that the wave was upon them. Women fainted and prayed refusing to be comforted. The talk of the tidal wave has caused many visitors to leave the city until the scare
is over.

GIRL KILLS NEGRO
WITH A PARING KNIFE

Porter Stopped Suddenly and the Sharp-Pointed Weapon Enters
His Heart.

Lima, O., Aug. 18.—A playful knife thrust by 15-year-old Rosa Hartzog resulted in the death of William Mc-Cown, aged 40 years. Rosa assists her mother as cook at the Mint restaurant,
where McCown was employed as a porter. The girl was on the porch paring potatoes, while McCown was at work near by. It is said McCown hit the girl over the back with the flat side of a knife and then started to walk away. Rosa, raising up her knife and pointing it toward McCown, started after him. McCown stopped suddenly and unexpectedly Rosa's
sharp-pointed paring knife penetrated
his body. The postmortem examination showed that the blade went two inches into the man's heart.

When Rosa saw the blood she began crying and apologized. McCown laid his hand on her shoulder and said:
"That's all right, little girl. I've had many worse cuts than that." He then sat down and it was some time before he fell to the floor. He died as the ambulance was en route to a hospital.
Before he became unconscious Mc-Cown completely exonerated Rosa.
McCown was the first negro graduate from the Lima high school.

CONGRESSMEN FIGHT
MARSHAL ON STREET

Political Letter Leads to Blows and Arrest of Both Men at Jackson, Miss.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 18.—A sensational street fight occurred in front of the Spangler House between Congressman John Sharpe Williams and United States Marshal Edgar S. Wilson. According to eye-witnesses, Wilson approached Williams in the hotel lobby and spoke to him pleasantly. Williams curtly refused to exchange greetings,
and Wilson demanded an explanation.
The two men went out to the pavement and Williams accused Wilson of writing a very ugly letter about him.
"Yes, I wrote that letter," said Wilson, "but it had nothing to do with this congressional campaign."

"It was a lie," exclaimed Williams, and the little congressman assumed a threatening attitude.

"Williams, if you hit me I am going to hurt you seriously," said Wilson,
and his hand moved in the direction of his hip pocket. Quick as a flash Williams planted a blow on Wilson's forehead, and a general melee followed.
Both men were struck several times.
Bystanders interfered. Both men were arrested.

TWO BRITISH SHIPS GO DOWN

Twenty-Three Drown in a Terrible Storm Off Cape Town.

Cape Town, Aug. 18.—As the result of a storm which has just swept over here, the British bark Highlands,
Captain Smith, from New York, July 10, for East London, and the British bark Brutus, Captain Dallachie, from London, June 3, for Table bay, have been wrecked off this coast. The British transport City of Lincoln is ashore and the German steamer Kaiser, from Hamburg, July 15, for East Africa, has been damaged. Chief Officer Burke of the Highlands says that his bark sank almost instantly and that twenty-three men of her crew were drowned.
The captain, ten men and himself clung to the bridge, which floated, but the captain and others were washed off. Burke and two others were rescued, being about two hours in the water.

OLEO. MAKERS WILL CONTINUE FIGHT

Manufacturers Will Appeal from the Decision Prohibiting the Use of Palm Oil.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(Special).—Oleomargarine manufacturers have determined to continue the fight to permit them to use palm oil in the manufacture of their product, notwithstanding the decision of the commissioner of internal revenue that this oil could not be used. The commissioner based his decision on the fact that if but a small quantity of palm oil should be used it would be for the purpose of coloring oleomargarine in imitation of butter, and would be subject to a tax of ten cents a pound. He further held that if palm oil can be used at all in oleomargarine
submitted to him in sample, it would be deleterious to health.

Palm Oil
The manufacturers do not propose to antagonize the commissioner by appealing to the courts, but will place before him the question whether palm
oil can be used at all in oleomargarine
if the oil is pure and not placed in the product for the purpose of supplying the color of true butter. The oil will be refined and purified so no objections can be raised on account of its flavor or color.

In Statute
If Commissioner Yerkes holds the oil can be used in the form proposed it will have the effect of nullifying the law, which was placed on the statute books after such a fight, and oleomargarine will have the same appearance as butter.

TO INVESTIGATE
FAILURE IN COURT

Will Try to Place Responsibility for Collapse of the Tripler Liquid
Air Company.

New York, Aug. 18. (Special).— District Attorney Jerome to-morrow will begin before Judge Julius M.
Meyer of the Court of Special Sessions a special inquiry for the purpose of determining the responsibility for the collapse of the Tripler Liquid Air Company, and to determine what became of several hundred thousand dollars supposed to have been realized
from the sale of its stock.

Jones Interested
United States Senator John P.
Jones of Nevada and former United States Senator Stephen W. Dorsey of star route fame, formerly president and vice-president of the Tripler Company, are alleged to have been the promoters. Alfred Bach, attorney for the complainant, says Mr.
Dorsey managed the financial end of the scheme and spent $50,000 in preliminary advertising. He adds:

"When the company was declared bankrupt it developed that it was indebted to various persons in the sum of $350,000. It is said that the promoters sold about 150,000 shares of their personal holdings of stock and realized on it from half to three-quarters of a million dollars."

Fennell & Co., the fiscal agents, and Thomas J. Kinney, the general manager of the fiscal agency, in order to prevent the promoters from selling their personal stock and thus interfering with the sales of stock for the benefit of a large amount of promotion stock at a price ranging from 50 cents to $2 a share, and by good management sold it for their own account at from $5 to $8 a share, but they did it so judiciously that the market price of the stock was not broken, and the company was not injured in any way except that it was unable to sell its treasury stock and therefore became bankrupt."

Senator Jones said tonight: "This whole affair is a blackmailing scheme and that is what I told the district attorney when Mr. Dorsey and I called on him two weeks ago."

Bartholin's mother.

MARY MACLANE IS ANXIOUS FOR LOVE

Saw Her Ideal in Chicago. But Believes Fate Means Her to Live Alone.

New York, Aug. 17. (Special).—Who is the Chicago man that Mary Mac-Lane, late of Butte and now of Boston, wanted to love? There is such a man for the American Bashkirtseff confesses it. This interesting revelation was made in the course of an interview published in the New York World today. The frank young woman from Montana is quoted as saying:

"When I wrote my book I wanted to love someone. I wanted to be in love. Now I know that I shall never be in love—and I no longer wish to be. I don't like men. I met a man in Chicago, with whom I should like to have been in love," she added,
"but I couldn't fall in love with him.
I was born to be alone, and I shall always be; but now I want to be."

Perhaps the Chicago people who entertained Miss MacLane at ten would like to know what she thought of them. Here is her confession.
"When people say I have pretty hair, I always correct them by saying at once, 'I have beautiful hair.' It is so funny. I did that several times in Chicago. 'Oh,' she said, 'the people at the teas in Chicago—you should have seen me in caper for them.'"

"I dislike myself far less for capering than for those who want to see me. 'How do you do Miss MacLane?'
I am so interested in you,' they all said. Many of them did not know how to be interested in me. Oh, but there were a few who I did love. One woman said to me, 'Oh, you haven't found yourself yet. That's all. You will.
How I hated her. Don't they suppose I know I'm not the way I would be? Why can't they see I am the way I am?'"

Eight months without a criminal action of any kind is the record of Glenwood, a village of more than 1,000 inhabitants.

dent Roosevelt and delivered the

CRIPPLE CREEK GOLD OUTPUT

July Shows Largest Tonnage in the Camp's History.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Aug. 18.—July was the banner month in the matter of tonnage of any in the history of the great gold camp. There were shipped and treated 59,843 tons, that had a gross value of $2,030,036. The grade of the ore, however, was low for Cripple Creek. The average was only $33.94 per ton. The reduction plants beat all former records, with a tonnage of 47,843, that carried gold to the value of $1,870,936. The August output will exceed in tonnage that of July.

TO INQUIRE INTO GOVERNMENT LOSS

Quartermaster Accounts in the Philippines Will Be Carefully Investigated at Washington.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(Special).—It has been determined to investigate thoroughly all quartermaster accounts for the Philippines since April, 1899. Accuracy in the work can be had only by checking the separate items. To do this the auditor for the war department has called upon the division of insular affairs for a complete set of abstracts of stores and supplies received at Manila from the army transports and work has already begun in compiling these abstracts.

Have Facts
The facts already in possession of the auditor show apparent discrepancies between the insular affairs abstracts, the lighter register, and the quartermaster accounts. It is not charged that any evidence of dishonesty has been discovered, nor is the belief expressed that such discovery will be made. It is admitted, without specification, that discrepancies exist, and further investigation may show that the government has lost considerably.

Prices Vary.
The records seem to show that certain boats working through a certain number of hours and between given points, made trips more frequently than their registry speed would allow or carried greater tonnage than the registry allows them. The registry also shows an extreme variation in the price paid for lightering, the rates running from 7 cents to several dollars per ton, according to distance and character of cargo.

UNION SERVICES WELL ATTENDED

OUT OF DOOR MEETINGS ARE TEMPORARILY ABANDONED.

WEATHER NOT PROPITIOUS

Rev. J. T. Henderson Preached an Able Sermon at the Court Street M. E. Church.

At the Court Street Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, an audience completely filling the edifice, listened to an impressive address by the Rev. J. T. Henderson on the topic, "Deep Thoughts of God." The plan of holding the union services of the church in the park has been necessarily postponed indefinitely until the weather shall again become more lenient on the Sabbath evenings. In place of the regular Scripture reading the audience was requested to join in repeating the Twenty-Third Psalm. Then, when the preacher came forward, he read before beginning his discourse, in order that the words might be fresh in the minds of his hearers, the Forty-second and Forty-third Psalms. These two Psalms, he said, were in reality divided into two parts, but one Psalm which had three divisions, each of which ended with the cry of deepest longing, "Why art thou cast down, oh my soul?" and then going on to the exultant expression, "I shall yet praise my God."

Poetic Power of David
David excelled in his ability to express in his lyrics, by means of poetic diction and felicitous metaphors, the deepest longings of the heart. By these methods he could subtly and yet forcibly deal with these thoughts of the heart which could never be expressed effectively in prosaic literalness. In this Psalm he alternates between tears, the soul's deepest yearnings, joy and despair. In the man's heart there come up successively the emotions of doubt, longing and despondency, but always there rings out clear and true the battle cry to action. The final assault is constantly urged in which victory must follow the attack. And then as success becomes more sure, the man's faith and hope in God becomes steadfast.

Nature's Voice to Man
In this Psalm nature is given credit for many of the yearnings which come up in man's breast. It appeals to the heart of man and speaks to him in a more or less definite tone of the duties that call him on, the greatness and power of God, and the grandeur of a noble life. We all have experienced the case with which a problem may be dealt with under the wide, star-dotted sky which could not be solved in the midst of a city's perplexities.

David found that the soul that panted and yearned for the protection of some omnipotent power, found satisfaction in the living waters as does the tired beast in a clear-flowing brook. The soul that trusts in God is allowed to feed in the green pastures of the world. The deep things of life could be heard and made to appeal to us if we would only listen to the voice of nature.

Man's Various Moods
It is not only in the tumult and roar of the mighty waterfall and the majestic ocean, but in the quiet, passing changing moods of nature that man can feel that he is being communicated with by God. The lesson then, is that there are both light and weighty interests in the human life which one should gain strength and power from the Master, and that the frivolous and the serious should not be confounded.

There is much that is shallow, much that is superficial, but beneath all there is the deep longing for the Father. Now, there is the man who is become nearly the brute, so besotted and groveling near the earth, and then there is the more ready divine nature of the individual that makes responses to the deepest and truest in life.

How Shall He Answer
How shall the young man hear and answer the questions that are brought before him, the superficial and the obtuse, the light and the grave? This is the problem that the youth must solve, and it is one of his greatest problems. The same questions come up over and over again in the career of every young person. And these same problems are even the same and ever unsolved.

Advantage of Skepticism
A great fuss is often made because of the attitude of skepticism or doubt which is taken by the young person. It is not however, to be taken too gloomily, because it is the sign of inward thought. David was the greatest doubt and confusion in his mind, but he continued to analyze his feelings and search deeper and deeper into his motives, until finally he came very near to God.

The fault of the young person is too often that he comes easily to a decision in a problem that has for ages vexed the wisest minds of the earth. Men have sought and sought that they might find out the truth which underlies these yearnings, and longings and temptations of the soul and they have always come inevitably to the one answer that there is but one God and he is the Lord. It is superficial to stop searching until one has gone at least as far as these earlier students did who finally came to this conclusion.

To Solve Deep Problems
Too often it is the case that the deep questions in a man's life are answered by the superficial side of his nature, and as a result, however, he may have seemed to have disposed of the difficulty, the problem is still there and unsolved. Youth often answers readily and rightly what old age has sought out with bare head and feet, a reverential step for years. The greatest ardor should be reserved for the greatest things.

A Sad Condition
It is possible that there should be a sadder condition than that a man should devote the superficial of his life to the deep, it is that he seriously apply himself to that which is shallow.

low. Men sometimes think more of what they eat than of what they think, more of today than of tomorrow.

During the coming week there will doubtless be many men who have devoted their lives to the shallow. There will be those who have robbed themselves of the respect of honorable men and have won for themselves the name of gambler. These men have sacrificed their lives that they might follow a pursuit which consists of outwitting others, and gaining something for nothing.

The Normal Life
It is best that the man should learn to discriminate between that which he should regard as vital and that which is of slight importance. Wealth often knocks at the door and says, "Enjoy me?" and the wise man replies, "Yes, I will give up this little corner of my interests to you." The foolish man makes wealth his aim in life and crowds everything else out.

Pleasure is a part of every rightly constituted man's being, but it should not predominate in his thoughts. This is that to which Christ referred when he said: "What shall a man give in return for his soul?" A man should be prepared to grapple with all his might with the great things when they come, and not be found to have frittered away his power in that which has been profitless. The only answer which can be given to that man in the final reckoning, "Thou fool, this night shall thy life be required of thee." The wise man learns to make distinction between the light and the important and for him there is the reward of a righteous life, and all eternity will be his for him be given up to purest joy.

FLAKE POTATO FACTORY WORK

THE PROCESS IS A SECRET

Inventor Is Here, Making Final Arrangements for Opening His Establishment.

Since last Wednesday Frank Bunyan has been in the city over seeing the work on the Flake Potato factory in Spring Brook. Little more has been done thus far than to clear the building and prepare for the installation of the machinery. "No Admittance" signs have been conspicuously hung in various parts of the building, and at all the doors, and the order will be strictly enforced.

A Secret Process
Mr. Bunyan is the inventor of the machinery and the process that will be used, and every step will be strictly secret. Although the machinery has been patented the whole system is so radically new that it would be unwise to allow common access to the building. None of the machinery has been manufactured as yet and the contract will be given to no one firm, but will be placed a piece here and a piece there, in order that the complete form of the mechanism will not be commonly known. A number of the castings will probably be made in this city if it can be done cheaply and satisfactorily enough.

Only three or four men will be required to operate the factory, and those will be experts from other cities who will be able to do all the work required in connection with the machinery. A number of girls will be employed to wrap up the finished cereal which is a seventy-five per cent. concentrated product.

Extensions Will Follow.
At first only one set of the machinery will be installed in the building but others will follow, later if the first proves successful. Of course the first machinery that is to be built and set up in the works here is in a large part an experiment but Mr. Bunyan has no doubt of its ultimate success.

FIRE IN THE NEW DOTY FOUNDRY

Saturday's Blaze Is Quickly Extinguished by the Fire Department.

An alarm of fire turned in from box 21 at the corner of North Main street and Fourth avenue, caused the fire department to turn out in short order just before five o'clock on Saturday evening.

In Foundry
The fire was in the foundry of the New Doty Manufacturing Co., and was caused by a quantity of molten iron being dropped on the frame around a large flask. A large casting was about to be made and a large kettle containing five tons of molten metal was swung around over the flask. In some way the kettle was tipped before it was in the proper position to allow the molten metal to run into the flask and a quantity ran onto the wooden frame around the flask. In a second the wood of the frame was on fire and the blaze soon communicated to the crane and from it ran up to the roof and a hot fire was imminent. The fire department was soon on the scene in response to the alarm and the blaze was soon extinguished with chemicals from the patrol wagon. Mayor Richardson, who owns the plant, was early on the scene and directed the work of the fire department and the men. He was much gratified that no one was hurt by the molten metal and that the damage was so slight.

MERELY A SPECTACULAR SHOW

Rev. Churm Refers to Coming Event Incidentally in Yesterday Morning's Sermon.

Pastors who occupied their own pulpits yesterday morning, had the pleasure of seeing many strange faces in their congregations, which are closed while their pastors are away on their annual summer vacations, took advantage of the opportunity to visit some sister church.

Many of these visiting church-goers attended divine worship at the First M. E. church and listened to an able sermon by the Rev. James Churm on "The Twofold Miracle." The sermon was preceded by the usual devotional service during which the chorus choir sang a pleasing arrangement of "Oh Could I Speak the Matchless Worth." Mrs. F. T. Richards presided at the organ.

Rev. Churm chose as his text the 48th, 50th and 53rd verses of the fourth chapter of St. John: "Then said Jesus unto him, 'except ye see signs and wonders ye will not believe. Go thy way; thy son liveth.' And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him and he went his way. So the father knew that it was at the same hour in which Jesus had said unto him, 'Thy son liveth;' and himself believed and his whole house."

Two Great Miracles
Rev. Churm centered his sermon around the two miracles which Christ performed when he came out of Judea into Galilee. The first was the turning of water into wine at the wedding in Cana and the second was the restoring to health of the nobleman's son, to which latter miracle the words of the text refer. The speaker believed the two miracles to be closely connected and after briefly describing the scene at the wedding and the incident at the well in Samaria, which occurred between the two miracles, Rev. Churm dwelt at length on the nobleman's appeal to Christ to save his sick son.

The nobleman went to Jesus, as a wonderworker, not comprehending his divinity. Christ to him was not the Messiah but a physician. Jesus regretted the fact that he had not impressed Galilee as he had hoped to. They were looking after material things and in the two miracles there is a connection. The first was wrought without intercession, but the second was the result of an appeal.

Never Hurry
One of the most impressive things concerning this miracle is the lament of Jesus over the imperfect faith of the nobleman and the calmness which he exhibited. He did not hurry. God's work goes on day by day sweetly, effectively, grandly. There is nothing in the great plan to indicate any particular hurry and Jesus gave the world the example of taking time for the work he had to do.

Jesus recognized that it was more important to perfect and confirm the faith of the nobleman than to cure his son and in doing this he took hold of circumstances and of his knowledge of the man. The nobleman was looking for some sign. The same spirit is manifested today. People are always looking for evidences and a good piece of workmanship will bear examination.

Effect of Carnival
People are pleased with the spectacular. A great many people will be pleased by the carnival during the coming week, but the speaker did not think that any great good would come out of it. While people will come to the city and everything will be done to please and allure and to advertise the various organizations and business firms, he did not anticipate that anyone would be helped to a higher or better life. The value of the spectacular always lies in the inward force back of it.

Like the nobleman, people today are looking out for material things but the material are not as real as the spiritual. No man can delve into Christianity without finding that Christianity does not rest for its basis on the material and spectacular but on the inner Christ life. Well might Christ lament over the people of today who are looking after material things and signs when it should be their privilege and ambition to look after the spiritual.

Increase By Exercise
Christ tested the nobleman's faith. He had not gone far, but he used what he had and Christ will go to meet any man who does his best. If man uses what he has he will acquire more, in the spiritual as well as in the material. Music, intellect and talents are increased by exercise and the man or woman who succeeds is the one who uses what he has, maintains his position and goes forward. Today men are looking in the direction of specialism. So Christians should become specialists in Christian faith. More will be done by sticking to the doctrine and to the church to which they belong than by scattering their energy.

By refusing to go to Capernaum and by healing the sick boy from a distance Christ strengthened the faith of the nobleman. Jesus always works in his own way. If men expect to gain anything in the material way they must go to Christ and allow him to have his own way.

Growth of Faith.
The nobleman jumped from the babyhood to the manhood of faith and his whole household believed. The way to increase faith is to exercise it. The way to work is to begin right where one is to do God's bidding. The best kind of missionary effort is that which people put into their own lives and homes, allowing it to spread until it touches and influences others lives. Foreign and home missions are inter-dependent.

The Better Life
The nobleman found a miracle in his own soul. His little faith was strengthened by coming to Jesus. As certainly as people work for others, they are helped themselves and God's kingdom is extended. True evangelism begins at home. The better life is not the outer life, but the life that is hid in God.

SEARCH AND IT SHALL BE FOUND

A Lost Check at Last Turns Up on a Street Car Platform.

Last Friday afternoon there was great excitement for a few minutes at one of the banias in this city when a lady who has been visiting in Janesville for some time, and had come into the bank to draw some money, announced after a few moments' search, that she had lost a pocketbook containing a draft for a large amount which had been sent to her by her husband in Colorado. She had gotten off at the bank from a Milton avenue car and it was suggested that she might have dropped it in the car. Acting upon this supposition one of the gentlemen in the building telephoned post haste to the M. C. A. building asking the man who answered the telephone to board the Milton avenue car which was probably near there at that time and search for a pocketbook.

Without delay the Y. M. C. A. man rushed out and saw the car just rounding the corner at Academy street. A short sprint brought him up to it, and getting on the rear platform he found the pocketbook just inside the door. The next question was to return it to the owner who he had never seen. As he passed in front of the Association building he met a woman who wore the anxious expression of one who had just lost a large check, or a child, or a dress pattern, and he rushed up with a cry of joy to offer her the book. The young man is still stinging from the glance which rewarded him, and he decided that he had better try again for the owner. The lady whom he accosted evidently believed that she had narrowly escaped a bunco man who had just attempted to hold her up. The pocket book containing the draft was finally returned to the rightful claimant and everyone breathed easily again.

LOOKING BACK

To the time when she was plucked from the very grasp of death, the natural impulse of the womanly heart is thankfulness for the means which saved her, and a desire to help other women in like case. Those are the motives which prompted Mrs. Eva Burnett to write the accompanying testimonial to the curative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This is only one cure out of thousands. No one would dare say that the average woman was not as truthful as she is good. And it is the truthful testimony of the average woman that "Favorite Prescription" cures womanly diseases when all other means and medicines absolutely fail. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I have intended for some time to write to you," says Mrs. Eva Burnett, of Russellville, La., "and give a testimonial in regard to what your medicine has done for me. My baby came in July, 1899, and I had congestive colic, and lay at death's door for ten long weeks. I was in a dreadful condition and had six of the best doctors of the city. After everything had been done and I had been given up to die I asked my mother-in-law to get a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It had no mission in it, but he got it, and when I had taken it two weeks I was able to walk to the dining room, and my mother and by the time I had taken three bottles I was able to cook for my family of four. I can never praise Dr. Pierce and his medicine enough."

NOTICE is hereby given that on the 22d day of September, 1902, at 2 o'clock p. m., application will be made to His Excellency, Governor Robert M. La Follette, at the Executive Chamber in the Capitol at Madison, Wis., by Mrs. Fanny Marsden and others, for the pardon of one Ray Marsden, convicted of the crime of burglary in the Municipal Court for Rock county on the 18th day of September, 1901, and sentenced by said court on that day to five years imprisonment in the state's prison of the said state of Wisconsin.

GAME WARDENS MAKE REPORTS

They Say There Are Plenty of Chickens and Small Game This Year.

Hunting experts say that good sport is promised the hunters in Wisconsin this fall. Game wardens throughout the state report that there has not been such an abundance of prairie chickens and other small game in Wisconsin in years. This is largely due to the mild weather, but credit is also given the protection given the birds by enforcement of the game laws through the large force of deputy wardens. There are sixty of these appointed by the state warden, in addition to local wardens appointed by counties.

September 1 the closed season ends and guns will begin to crack. Prairie chickens, grouse and other upland game, except pheasants and quail, may be shot after that date, also ducks and other water fowl, the opening season for both beginning on the same day. But the hunter has other things to look out for besides the legal date. He must have a hunting license, and the sportsman who goes out without one is just as liable to get into trouble as the one who crowds the season, and the penalty is even greater, the minimum penalty for hunting in the closed season being $25, and for hunting without a license $50.

There are some states which permit hunters from other states which have no license fee to hunt there also without a license, but Wisconsin takes the opposite course and makes persons from any other state, whether under a license system or not, pay more for the privilege of hunting in Wisconsin than is required of residents. A $1 license entitles the resident of Wisconsin to hunt both small game and deer, while the resident of another state who wishes to hunt in Wisconsin pays $10 for a license entitling him to shoot prairie chickens, ducks or other small game, and $25 if he wishes to shoot deer. The deer license, however, carrying the privilege of shooting game also. The Wisconsin hunter secures his license from the clerk of the county in which he lives, this entitling him to shoot anywhere in the state, but the non-resident gets his hunting license from State Game Warden Overbeck, sending the fee to his office here, and getting his license by mail.

Eleven non-residents have already secured Wisconsin hunting licenses for this year, six being Chicago men, and two being ladies. They are: Misses Katherine and Jane De Pauw, and Newland T. De Pauw, of New Albany, Ind.; Mr. De Pauw having a deer license; Dr. Nicholas Senn, Paul Tarbel of the Chicago Journal, C. D. Bartlett, D. F. Crilly, Chas. Trux, and Chas. P. Guedner, all of Chicago; Carlton Prouty of Winnetka, Ill.; and H. E. Thomson of St. Paul. A year ago at this time only two non-residents had secured licenses, and most of those who have secured licenses this year have not hunted in Wisconsin before, or at least have never before secured licenses. There is a big increase also in local hunting licenses, about 500 have already been issued to residents of this state. All the monies received for licenses are paid over to the state treasurer, and go into a fund from which the deputy wardens' salaries and expenses are paid.

There have been 175 arrests for violation of the fish and game laws—us far this year, and the total paid in fines aggregates $2,053, all of this going to the state school fund. The largest number of arrests occurred in May, when 38 persons were convicted of illegal fishing, and seven non-residents of killing deer, the fines for the month amounting to $745. In July there were 16 arrests the fines amounting to $225. There have been eight arrests so far in August—three for killing deer, three for illegal fishing one for shooting prairie chickens, and one for hunting deer with a headlight.

A few days ago Deputy Wardens Schultz, Johnston and Miller made a raid down the Mississippi river, south from La Crosse, and gathered in eight nets of different varieties, as well as several thousand feet of net lines, scattered along the river.

GERMAN HONOR FOR OHIO GIRL

PYTHIANS SUSPEND J. A. HINSEY

Ex-President of the Endowment Rank Must Disprove Charges.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 18.—The supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias, after a long debate, voted to suspend John A. Hinsey until the charges pending against him in the Illinois courts are decided. The vote was 117 to 12. It is alleged that Hinsey, while president of the board of control, mismanaged the funds of the endowment rank in such a manner that there is a shortage of $618,000.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 18.—While Mrs. Barney Tenenbaum and three children were driving in this city the carriage which they occupied was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train, instantly killing one of the children and fatally injuring the other three occupants. The horse became unmanageable and backed in front of the approaching train.

PLANNING TO END MINERS' STRIKE

TO INVOKE THE AID OF THE LAW

Business Men of the Anthracite Region, Tired of Being Ground by the Two Forces, Propose Strenuous Legislation.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 18.—The committee from the Public alliance will meet Senators Quay and Penrose at Atlantic City to-night. The committee will discuss with the senators plans for compelling the coal operators to arbitrate the strike.

While no written proposition will be made to the two senators they will be told that the business men of the region are tired of being ground between the two forces and that, representing the best interests of the upper-part of the state, with direct losses already of several million dollars, they want the strike ended if it is in the senators' power to end it.

Look to Quay. It will be suggested that this power lies in the influence of Mr. Quay to direct legislation so that he could if desired command the passage of bills which would compel the coal companies to treat with their employees. It will be pointed out also that he can compel the enforcement of laws affecting the railroads of the state, particularly in such centers as Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, which would force the roads to a change of system and the expenditure of large amounts. If these things could be threatened it is believed by the committee that the railroads which control most of the coal mines would soon consent to arbitrate.

Sheriff Disperses a Mob. Only one call was made upon the sheriff for aid, when a march which had started for the Franklin colliery of the Lehigh Valley Company, promised to result in violence. The local authorities managed to disperse the mob. According to the present plan the resumption of work at the Warnke washeries at Duryea is to take place on Tuesday and if it does it is believed troops will be on the scene by Wednesday.

Threatens Officers. Frederick Warnke, the owner of the washery, contemplates action against Burgess Burlington and Chief of Police Cosgrove of Duryea and hopes to have them removed from office. He says they were in league with the strikers to prevent the resumption of work. The arrest of the guards and their commitment under heavy bail by the burgess will be the main grounds of the complaint.

With the soldiers in the region the Lackawanna company hopes to be able to resume work at three of its mines, where the officials say enough men can be had to operate if assured that there will be no interference by the strikers.

Prepare to Resume. Within the past week three of the largest collieries of the Reading company in the Mahanoy district have been put in condition to resume operations. Maple Hill, Tunnel Ridge and North Mahanoy collieries are now free of water and obnoxious gases. Nine mules have been brought to the collieries and it is expected an attempt will be made to resume mining this week.

The total losses resulting from the strike are estimated to be $70,080,000. Of this amount $33,050,000 falls on the operators. The strikers have lost $16,000,000 in wages.

GRADERS AT WORK AT CEMENT FACTORY

Hayes Brothers Have a Large Force of Men at Work in Spring Brook.

Grading for the screening station in connection with the cement post factory is well under way. The Hayes gang is not needed on the interior work as it was before, and has made good progress with the grading both inside the building to bring the earth up to the floor level, and outside to the north of the building, where the building for taking up the sand and gravel is located.

Machinery Arriving. A part of the machinery is unloaded in the factory, and the furnace has already been placed on its foundation, and the stack attached. The foundations for the engine have been completed but it has not yet arrived. The mixers, carriers, and elevators are also yet to come. The roof is practically completed, and a large number of the windows are in place as are all of the doors save those through which the grading teams are working. The windows for the building were made at the Jeffris factory.

At the P. Hohenadel, Jr., canning factory a covered shed is being built as an extension to the cabbage department. A road is also being graded to allow teams to drive up and unload at this place. It is expected that a very large quantity of cabbages will be handled this year and the additions are being made with this point in view. Throughout the factory improvements and repairs are being made wherever it is necessary in order that everything will be in readiness to begin work on Wednesday. Many loads of cucumbers are being brought in to the factory each day.

SENATOR SPOONER.
We endorse the following statement:

The republicanism of the men who go to the next legislature who have assumed the responsibility of voting for John C. Spooner should not be questioned in the querulous manner a few papers have seen fit to adopt. As is the unqualified republicanism of Senator Spooner, equally so is that of those men who will do all in their power to send him back.

Nothing is more certain than that Wisconsin will be greatly honored by returning this eminent statesman to the United States senate. He has reflected abounding credit on his state, as he has upon his country, and a few carping minds that have assumed that there are others, and prate about the honor of the platform, should be aware that in this matter there is no substitute and no other will do just as well.

If Senator Spooner has not taken part in the melee over the primary election reform business, and if he has not seen fit to speak, the motives that accentuate him are a sufficient reason.

Wisconsin wants John C. Spooner, and a genuine hearty republicanism will see that he is returned.—Racine Journal.

"Eastern papers have taken up the subject of Wisconsin politics and Wisconsin's actions at its last state convention. The following clipping from the Post Standard of Syracuse, N. Y. sums up the situation from an eastern editorial writer's view of the question. The article compares the two types of republicans, Mark Hanna and Robert LaFollette. It is interesting reading:

TWO MEN, THEIR METHODS AND AIMS.

Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin and Senator Hanna of Ohio, respectively, typify extremes of badness and goodness in political method as employed by those deemed worthy to be rated as political leaders in this country.

Of Senator Hanna The New York Sun has lately said: "The sincerity of his devotion to the task he has undertaken as Chairman of the National Civic Federation's Executive Committee on the part of the employers is as far beyond doubt as is the vastness of the opportunity for public usefulness which that function provides for him."

Of LaFollette The Sun has said: "He seems to play the country against the city. He wants to 'sock it' to the railroads and other corporations. He vetoes a dog tax law because upon the farm the watch dog and the shepherd dog are as much a necessity as the other domestic animals, whereas in the city they are a luxury and can be dispensed with. He vetoes a bill allowing railway companies to appoint policemen; a sop to the corporation bailiwick. He makes an easy popularity with the virtuous by preventing a prize fight in the world-loved town of Oshkosh. He sugars the farmers with sweet words," etc.

The Wisconsin governor's public career represents a consistent effort and even an implacable purpose to foster political dissensions and array class against class to purely personal and selfish ends. Did not a strong common sense and a sense of right and justice on the part of the people intervene, and could the effort of such men as LaFollette be successfully carried through to fruition, class conflict would become chronic and universal and republican government would end.

Senator Hanna's creed of citizenship, on the other hand, which his course as a political leader and public man has steadily illustrated and exemplified, is epitomized in these words spoken by him on behalf of the Civic Federation at Chautauqua on Saturday: "The Civic Federation is trying to establish a condition of absolute confidence between employer and employee. We remember the golden rule and try to live up to its principle. We must forget that there is any distance between the man who labors with his hands and the man who labors with his brain. We must strive to bring the different factions together."

Most men of the LaFollette stripe, in positions of political or business or industrial leadership use their opportunities and the people that can be got within their influence only as tools for the upbuilding of personal ambitions. The men in public life that Hanna nobly typifies are those who seek honestly as they are given opportunity, not to be ministered unto but to minister.

These two phases of political leadership which LaFollette and Hanna incarnate are, in their best and briefest definition, selfishness and self-sacrifice. The one, to the extent that it is in evidence in the larger and broader political life of this country turns backward the wheels of republican government as the best the nations of this old earth have known or shall know.

But the trend of things is from bad toward good. The world grows better as it grows older. In the evolution of democracy, however disheartening passing signs may seem to be, the Hannas must increase, but the LaFollettes must decrease.

It appears that the Clinton delegates to the first district convention did not vote against Parker but only voted against a Turtle Creek man for the committee on resolutions. It is said that several delegates that were pledged to Parker staid at home and that if they had been there he would have been nominated.

If a woman can cow a burglar with the look of an eye, what can she not do with her husband when he comes home late at night.

Chicago police are having as good a time finding Bartholm as they did trying to locate Taggart the Snell murderer.

Poor old Oom Paul cannot even get his loyal subjects together for a big pow wow at Johannesburg now that the fighting is over and he is not dictator any longer.

If Mr. Bryan would only travel to Mexico and try and build up their deprecate currency with his ideas then the United States might be ready to consider his propositions seriously.

Thing of it a Chicago man had to appeal to the courts for protection from a woman who was bent on marrying him.

Think of the feelings of William Jennings Bryan when Wyoming even made no mention of the silver plank in its platform.

Dowie's prayers are not as good a disinfectant as ordinary chloride of lime if he cannot stop the eight cases of small pox now in Zion City.

The New York woman who is suing her first husband for desertion after she has tried six other ventures, takes the cake.

A North Dakota senator is being cured by the X-ray. Few politicians would dare to submit to so searching an investigation.

Berlin Journal: Oshkosh drug stores will close Sunday afternoon. But there are ninety saloons open. No one need die from snake bite.

Indianapolis News: One by one the republicans of various states are declaring for Roosevelt and still the democrats are declaring for nothing and nobody.

Milwaukee Journal: When Buckstaff asks questions of General Bryant, he should not forget that he is loading additional work on Governor LaFollette.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The news that the yield of oats in Wisconsin this year is the largest in the history of the state should make the breakfast food outlook encouraging.

Indianapolis Journal: The friends of Senator Spooner in Wisconsin are organizing in every legislative district to nominate candidates pledged to his election, and the reports indicate that the plan is succeeding.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: In the absence of any other issue the democratic leaders are disposed to bring free trade on the track again, under the mistaken impression that she will be good for another heat.

Buffalo Express: Milwaukeeans need not feel sore because Emperor William did not decorate their mayor. The German ruler probably figured that the city is honored enough by the stuff which makes it famous.

New York Mail and Express "If Bryan could be persuaded that silence is golden," sighs the World. The trouble with him is that he knows that silence is golden, and, therefore, has an ineradicable prejudice against it.

Eau Claire Leader: The republican electors of Wisconsin were for Spooner long before they were for LaFollette. The latter, however, will be supported in everything except turning down our United States senator.

Waukesha Freeman: A head-on collision between two railway locomotives is one of the advertised attractions of the state fair. It will doubtless make a great smash and a tremendous racket, but we don't see how it will develop agriculture or add to the intelligence of nations.

It will probably cost a great deal of money, but, really isn't it rather cheap?

Eau Claire Telegram: Representative Babcock is now bombarded on the tariff issue by the democrats with the self-same arguments he used when he was hounding his steel schedule-bill some time ago. The chickens came home to roost, and they hadn't far to go.

La Crosse Chronicle: This kind of weather makes a man wonder what he did with his gun last fall. There's a suggestion of teal coming down from the north, and the pike muddling up under the bars. But it is only a false alarm turned in by the weather man.

Minneapolis Times: Minnesota a potato state this season with one of the biggest crops on record. This will be good news for the housekeeper and else for the man who dines at the lunch counter. A cheap meal is always more filling when the nutritious spud is not held at fancy prices by the gentle farmer.

Chicago News: Keepers of bucket shops will be greatly shocked at the charges of dishonorable conduct being made against one another by members of the Board of Trade. Bucket shop men had been always been led to suppose that members of the Board of Trade were almost too good for this earth.

Minneapolis Journal: The democrats, in figuring how they are to get control of the next house, put down two democratic congressmen from Minnesota. Those figures must have been made by Chairman Jones of the national committee; they look like the figures he used to make in the Bryan campaigns of 1896 and 1900.

St. Paul Globe: Archbishop Ireland is once more receiving the kindly attention of a number of estimable people that disagree with him. One thing chiefly distinguishes between the archbishop and his critics. It is that when the cause of the disagreement is settled their names are forgotten, but the archbishop's is, if possible better known than ever.

Lancaster Teller: For all this year there have been but two parties—LaFollette and anti-LaFollette. The former stands for equality between men and for equal taxation, and the latter for bossism and tax dodgers. As between them the democrats here-away have all been for LaFollette.

Fond du Lac Reporter, Dem.: The Milwaukee Journal complains that its people and its buildings are getting dirty because of the burning of soft coal in the downtown districts. Why doesn't the Journal try its hand at settling the coal strike, and thus furnish Milwaukee with coal that won't make its people and its buildings look musty?

Green Bay Gazette: The Oshkosh yacht "Tecumseh" was beaten in the Canadian races by too much wind. In the light breezes she showed herself superior to the Canadian yacht. It is hard to understand why this was so. Wind is not an unknown quantity in Oshkosh, and it would seem that the "Tecumseh" ought to have been right in her element with a goodly supply of that article.

Princeton Star: Why all this howl about Senator Spooner? Why does the league insist upon keeping up the fight after the convention by a great majority has nominated the ticket and adopted the platform? Why does it seek to still further widen the breach between the two elements of the party? If Senator Spooner is desirous of a reelection he can be re-elected by saying so. All parties concede this.

Madison Democrat: The fact is that there are plenty of democratic candidates willing to take the field this fall is an indication that the woods are full of stalwarts eager to vote for a democratic nominee for governor. Never in the history of the republican party of Wisconsin has there been such a split in their ranks, never was there a time when voting for a democrat for governor was esteemed a luxury anticipated with such satisfaction as now. No wonder that democrats are in full blossom in all parts of the state.

NORTHWESTERN A COMPLETE LINE

HISTORY OF THE GREAT TRANS-CONTINENTAL TOLD.

IT HAD A MODEST BEGINNING

The Present System Exploited in a Charming Souvenir Book
Just Issued.

Artistic souvenirs are an important feature of railroad business at the present time and all the leading roads of the country spend a vast amount of money annually on attractive literature, designed for free distribution and expected to serve as valuable advertising matter.

One of the most attractive of these souvenirs has just been issued by the Chicago and North-Western railway company. It is a little booklet which gives a brief history of the development of that part of the C. & N. W. road extending between Chicago and Omaha. This history represents over half a century of progress, dating from the establishment of the road in 1848. The souvenir is printed on heavy book paper and is handsomely illustrated.

An Interesting History

The story told in the subject matter is an interesting one as the completion of the double track railway between Chicago and the Missouri river marks an epoch in the history of western roads. The North-Western system of today includes the first railroad chartered from Chicago to the west, the Galena & Chicago Union railroad. This road was incorporated by the state of Illinois, January 10, 1836, when Galena was the leading city of the west. The survey began the following February and the work was carried on fitfully for two years after which it was discontinued for ten years. Finally, at a popular convention held at Rockford, a resolution was adopted showing the necessity of a general subscription to the stock of the company by the people along the proposed route.

Communities and individuals became interested and subscriptions were as liberal as possible when payments beyond the first installment had to depend on future crops. Finally the contract for the first thirty-two miles was let March 31, 1848 and on the 20th of the next November a party of newspaper men and stockholders took the first trip over the road, then extending ten miles west. On the return trip a load of wheat was transferred from a farmer's wagon to the train, the first grain shipment by rail ever received in Chicago.

The "Pioneer"

At this time the road's rolling stock consisted of six freight cars, one passenger coach and the "Pioneer," a locomotive, which now appears very crude and small beside the great engines that pull the North-Western's trains. This was the humble start of one of the greatest railway systems in the west. It was the first railroad in the east connecting with the Union Pacific railroad. At that time twenty-eight hours were required for the journey of 439 miles between Chicago and Council Bluffs; and in May, 1869, after the completion of the Pacific railroads, 109 hours for the journey of 2,336 miles between Chicago and San Francisco. At present the trip from Chicago to San Francisco, on the Overland Limited, is made in 71½ hours.

In 1867, one passenger train each day daily between Chicago and Council Bluffs furnished ample accommodation for all transcontinental passenger traffic.

Fast Time Unknown.

Fast time as speed is calculated, was unknown. Passenger train averaged from eighteen to twenty-two miles an hour; freight trains of fifteen cars were content with ten and twelve miles an hour. The air brake had not come, nor the mogul engine, nor modern buffers and couplings. The hand brake and muscle of train employees checked speed. Bridges were of wood; rails of iron; ballast, plain earth; fuel, wood from forests. Signal towers, semaphores, bell switches, automatic warnings, and electric safety devices were unheard of. Even the telegraph service was yet undeveloped, and the utmost caution was necessary to prevent disasters.

Modern Conveniences

To-day the traveller over the same route finds his train lighted with electricity; Pullman cars with electric fans, electric reading lamps, a library and buffet at his command, a telephone at his elbow, whether he is in the Chicago or San Francisco station. He has his bath room and tub, a barber shop, a complete dining car, a compartment observation room, observation parlors, vestibuled platforms with plate glass doors, absolute privacy if he desires, companionship if he prefers.

Double steel tracks, perfect ballast, steel bridges, every safety appliance known to railway experts, magnificent engines, greyhounds of steel, are all at his service.

Wonderful Growth.

The first transcontinental railway of the nation has advanced with the needs and the growth of the wonderful transcontinental country between Lake Michigan and the Golden Gate. In 1902, four trains each way daily are necessary between Chicago and Council Bluffs to accommodate the travel of the Chicago, Union Pacific & North-Western Line.

FOREST FIRES MENACE A TOWN

Florence, Wis., In Danger and Many Farmers Fight Flames.

Florence, Wis., Aug. 18.—Forest fires that have been raging in this vicinity now threaten the town and the fire department has been called out to protect the saw mill of D. S. Fuller. Crops in the vicinity are seriously threatened and word has been received from Commonwealth, a mining village south of here, that the citizens have banded together to protect their homes. The flames have spread so rapidly in the last few days as to cause the greatest alarm among the farmers. The wind is blowing from the south and the smoke is so dense here that the sky is obscured and makes breathing difficult.

CLEVER WORK BY DARING THIEVES

STOLE A TEAM IN BROAD DAY-LIGHT SATURDAY.

POLICE HAVE NO CLUE YET

Officers Trace the Team for Miles
Without Success—Sheriff
Is Out.

A case of horse stealing that eclipses anything of the kind ever done in this city occurred on Saturday afternoon and Nicholas Schenck, a farmer residing near Shopshire lost a good pair of horses and a nearly new surrey. Every effort has been made to apprehend the thieves but so far without success, and it is believed that the thieves have succeeded in making good their escape.

Came To Town

Schenck came to town Saturday morning to do some trading and in the afternoon drove over on River street and hitched his horses near Leo Kuester's saloon. The rig remained near where he left it all of the afternoon and Mr. Schenck visited it a number of times to leave articles he had purchased. Shortly before five o'clock he visited the rig and put some more bundles in it. He then went back to W. T. Vankirk's store and purchased two baskets of peaches and stopped there for a short time.

Misses Rig

On returning to where he had left the rig he discovered that some one had made away with it while he was at Vankirk's store.

He looked around the street for a time to see if someone had not moved it to some other place and not finding any trace of it he turned to the police and reported his loss to them. Chief Hogan and Officers Brown and Fanning at once made a search for the rig hoping to find it on some of the other streets without success.

Rig Seen

After a little while they received word that some parties had seen a rig like the one described on East Milwaukee street near Dr. James Mills' residence with a man and a boy in it, going out Milton avenue. Officers Brown and Fanning at once secured a horse and buggy and followed after them. The next they heard of the fugitives was at Mackinac corners near the end of Milton avenue. Here they had turned east towards Milwaukee. They went down the road east to the first cross road and met a farmer who had seen the outfit go by during the evening going towards Milton. The way this farmer happened to notice the rig was that he was expecting some machine experts out to fix a blinder for him and was watching for them. He thought at first that this was the rig he was waiting for and went out to the fence to meet them before he discovered that it was not the people, that, he was looking for. He had a good look at the outfit and is confident it was the stolen rig.

Search Kept Up

Officers Brown and Fanning kept up the search until about 9:30 but could get no further trace of them, so returned home.

The officers are confident that the thieves are headed for Milwaukee and yesterday morning Sheriff Maltress and Mr. Schenck started overland to Milwaukee. They went to Whitewater yesterday morning but found no trace of them there and kept on overland to Milwaukee.

Send Descriptions

Descriptions of the missing rig have been sent to all of the surrounding towns and also to a number of the larger cities in hopes the police will be able to get hold of them.

The rig consisted of a sorrel horse about seven or eight years of age, and a dark bay horse about the same age. They were hitched to a double seated surrey nearly new.

Daring Thieves

It hardly seems possible that such a bare-faced robbery could be committed in the daytime on a busy street like River street and the parties get away without someone seeing them and recognizing the rig.

PHOSPHATE YIELD IS SMALL

Statistics Show Production in 1901 Less Than in 1900.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The total production of phosphate rock in the United States in 1901, according to statistics furnished by the geological survey, was 1,483,723 long tons, valued at $5,316,403, as compared with 1,491,216 long tons, valued at $5,359,248, in 1900, a decrease of 7,493 in tonnage and of $42,845 in value. The industry in Florida, which has been the chief producing state since 1894, continued to show an improvement, the total output and value for that state in 1901 being the largest yet recorded. The total production in Florida during 1901 was 715,996 long tons, valued at $3,159,473, as compared with 706,243 long tons, valued at $2,983,231 in 1900.

MOTHER'S APPEAL FOR SON'S PARDON

PETITION FOR RAY MARSDEN'S
FREEDOM IS STARTED.

HE IS NOW IN WAUPUN PRISON

Extreme Pouth of the Prisoner and His Alleged Reform Are the Reasons Urged.

Within the near future an appeal will be made to Governor LaFollette for the pardon of Ray Marsden, a young boy, sixteen years of age, who was convicted of burglary in the municipal court about a year ago and sentenced to the state prison at Waupun for a term of five years.

The petition for the pardon is being circulated by the boy's mother, Mrs. H. J. Marsden, who has returned to this city to reside. The reasons stated in the petition for granting the pardon are the extreme youth of the prisoner and the fact that the punishment already endured by the serving of one year of the term seems to have accomplished his complete reform.

Mother Is Confident

Mrs. Marsden is very confident of securing the pardon. She says that she has secured the aid of the state board of control and that all the officials and attorneys connected with the case, the complaining witnesses and many prominent business men have promised to sign the petition. She also expects the support of the Modern Woodmen of America and the Royal Neighbors of America, to which organizations she and her husband belong.

His Crime

Ray Marsden was sentenced on Sept. 18, 1901. Several local burglaries had been traced to him and the goods were found in his room at the Mary Kimball mission, he being a nephew of the Rev. Mary Kimball. The specific case against him was robbing Skelly's book store.

Kept in Ignorance

At this time, according to his parents, young Marsden was only fifteen years of age, although he was large and mature for his age. His parents were living at Fond du Lac and say that their son was induced, against their wishes, to come to Janesville and make his home with his aunt. His mother is confident that had he remained at home he would never have gone astray as she says he was never wilful until he began associating with low companions in this city. She further says that his actions were concealed from her and that she and her husband knew nothing of the trouble their son was in until he was arrested.

Hopes For Pardon

Relying on his youth, his alleged reform and the influence of prominent citizens, Mrs. Marsden hopes to secure her son's release from Waupun at the close of the first year of his five year term.

What Frank Thompson Says:

Mr. Frank Thompson at Myers house says: "Upon the advice of Dr. W. H. Palmer, I am using the Burr Lithia Water for a severe bladder trouble. The result is a wonderful improvement in my condition."

LOSES HER LIFE TO SAVE MONEY HUSBAND'S SKULL FRACTURED

Mrs. Tuman's Body Is Found 150 Feet From Her Cabin Minus All Her Clothing—Hut Bears Evidence of Terrible Conflict.

Muscataine, Ia., Aug. 18.—Because they fought desperately to prevent being robbed of the hoarded savings of a lifetime Jesse Tuman and his wife were beaten with an ax until the woman was killed and the man rendered insensible by wounds and the loss of blood.

Mrs. Tuman's bruised and broken remains were found on a hillside about 150 feet from her cabin home, five or six miles north of this city. She had fought until her clothing was torn off completely before she received her death blow.

Man's Skull Crushed.
Her husband was discovered on a cot in the cabin. His skull had been crushed and his jaw broken and he was unconscious.

Daniel Williams, a clam digger from Texas, had been making his home with the Tumans for two weeks. He is now missing and the police officials of this city, to which Tuman was brought during the day, are searching for him. Tuman was a clam digger and his shanty, a two-story structure on the Sherfy farm, north of Muscatine, is in a lonely spot.

Thought to Have Money.
The couple had lived frugally and the common report was that they had accumulated a snug sum which they kept in the hut. They seldom received visitors and the discovery of the tragedy in the shanty was made by accident.

Two boys named Judson, who were gathering wild grapes in the woods on the Sherfy farm, discovered the ghastly end of a terrible tragedy.

Evidence of Struggle.
They went to Tuman's hut and on entering discovered a scene of confusion, with tables and chairs overturned, curtains and bed clothes strewn on the floor, blood everywhere and on a cot unconscious, but with blood oozing from his wounds, one of the victims.

It was plain that there had been a terrible struggle for life. A woman's garments, evidently those of Mrs. Tuman, were scattered on the floor.

Find Woman's Body.
The frightened youths hastened to the nearest neighbor and the searching party organized, returned and found several hundred feet from the house the nude body of the wife, face downward in a ravine, her face badly bruised, one eye out and her arms terribly lacerated.

The murderer of Mrs. Tuman had evidently followed her when she made an effort to escape and brained her with an ax which was found close to her body.

Robbery the Motive.
There is no doubt that robbery was the motive for the crime. The shanty had evidently been thoroughly ransacked and when the officials searched the place not a valuable or a piece of money could be found.

Tuman will be operated upon in the hospital here. It is hoped if he ever becomes conscious that he may be able to name the assassin.

A second of the burglars is under arrest.

TAMIN WRECKED NEAR HAMMOND ENGINE MEN STICK TO POSTS

Fireman Pinioned Beneath Cab—Daniel E. Farris, Badly Hurt, Pleads for Help for Brother, Who Was Burned to Death.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Carrying 300 excursionists on their homeward journey, a Monon passenger train crashed into a heavy Erie freight near Hammond, Ind., killing one man, probably fatally injuring his brother, and wounding three others. The victims were all on the Erie train.

So great was the force of the impact the passengers, most of whom had been asleep, were thrown into a panic. Women screamed and fainted, and it is said the men fought each other in their endeavor to escape.

Demolishing the caboose, the engine turned diagonally across the rails and struck a Monon freight train which was standing on an adjoining track.

Wreckage Catches Fire.
To add to the excitement, the wreckage caught fire, entailing great loss to the two railroads, and then while rescuers were at work the wrecked engine exploded, increasing the panic, and many more narrowly escaped injury.

The dead: George W. Farris.
The injured: Daniel E. Farris, F. E. Kline, Frank Lewis, Samuel R. Marshall.

On board the excursion train were the faculty and students of Bartlett's Business college at Indianapolis and Cincinnati. Ten days ago the train left Cincinnati for Chicago. Arriving here, the entire party crossed the lake to Grand Haven and after a week at the lake resorts returned to this city and boarded the cars for the homeward trip.

Applies Brakes too Late.
Running out of this city over the Chicago and Western Indiana tracks at forty miles an hour to make up lost time in starting, the train of ten coaches and a baggage car was almost upon the freight a mile west of Hammond before Engineer Kline saw the red lights displayed on the caboose. He applied the brakes, but it was too late.

Police were summoned from Hammond, and on their arrival gave their attention to the work of rescue. From almost the bottom of the wreckage Daniel Farris was taken, four of his ribs being broken. His brother, also under the debris, was crushed and probably burned to death.

Asks Aid for Brother.
Forgetting his own injuries, Daniel begged the rescuers to save his brother, but the fire, which had spread to the other cars, was so hot it was impossible to attempt to save the unfortunate man.

Engineer Kline and Fireman Lewis stuck to their posts and Lewis was pinned beneath the cab, which had caught fire. It was not until the arrival of help from Hammond that he could be released. Marshall and the Farris brothers were in the Erie caboose.

Furniture and meat cars, splintered by the collision, added fuel to the blaze, which lighted up the country for miles. Firemen were summoned from Howewisch and Hammond, but the only water available had to be pumped from a nearby slough and little headway was made against the flames.

Telegraph poles many feet away were burned and the rails, on both tracks were tied into knots by the fire.

So great was the crowd attracted by the wreck the police had difficulty in preventing spectators from being injured.

FARMERS HOLD A BIG PICNIC

Discuss Illinois Crops and Express Doubt as to Late Corn.

Sycamore, Ill., Aug. 18.—The twentieth annual farmers' picnic was held in S. S. Man's grove in Burlington. Fully 25,000 people were present. The day was spent partly in discussing the crops. It was decided that the oats were fair and that the early corn would be saved if frost kept off till October. The late corn, it was argued, would have to be blanketed if saved at all. One-third of the acreage of corn was destroyed by heavy rains.

Chinese Rebels Killed.

Pekin, Aug. 18.—The viceroy of Sze-Chuan reports that Imperial troops attacked the rebel headquarters at Inchawan Aug. 12. One thousand rebels were killed and their leader, Tong Yu Hung, was captured and executed.

Seek Share of Fair Estate.

Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Nelson and her son Abram, the mother and half-brother of the late Mrs. Charles Fair, left Newmarket for San Francisco to care for their interests in the division of the Fair estate.

Illinois Man Found Dead.

Logan, Ok., Aug. 18.—The body of Frank Griswold, who came here recently from Illinois, has been found on the prairie near Logan by the man's mother. The cause of death is not known.

Strike Off in Wyoming.

Evanston, Wyo., Aug. 18.—The Jager Oil Company has struck a good flow of petroleum near Spring Valley. The drill had been working hard in sandstone all day, when suddenly it broke through and a good flow of oil, accompanied by gas, followed.

DAILY CARNIVAL NEWS

Miss Mamie Bowen will be Queen of the Elks' Carnival during this coming week. Miss Bowen will preside at the great Elks' parade and will ride in the most handsomely decorated carriage that the Janesville lodge of Elks can procure. Incidentally she will receive the fifty dollars hung out as an inducement by the Elks.

The contest on Saturday night had narrowed down to four young ladies,
Miss Alice Farnsworth, Miss Mamie
Bowen, Miss Bessie Wilcox and Miss Adelaide Best. This morning the friends of the two leaders, Miss Bowen
and Miss Farnsworth, formed a pool and just before noon they cast their entire votes. Miss Bowen won by over fifteen dollars' worth of tickets.

The Judges
Mrs. Charles B. Bestwick, Mrs. Al
McIntosh and Mrs. J. G. Rexford acted as the judges and when they counted the final vote at noon today it was found that $92.57 had been deposited for Miss Bowen since Saturday night, and $77.85 for Miss Farnsworth. This gave Miss Bowen the election.

Miss Bowen is a brilliant young woman of the brunette type. She has large brown eyes and dark hair and her cheeks bear the bloom of youth and health. She has a commanding physique and dignified bearing.

General Sentiment
Many people are gratified that the carnival queen should be a pretty working girl, a representative of the large class of young women who are forced to earn their own living. Miss Bowen is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Michael Bowen and resides with her parents on Yuba street. She has made her home in this city for six years and for over four years she has been in the employ of the Parker Pen Company.

She is the chief shipping clerk and has entire charge of the factory's shipping department. She is exceedingly popular with the employees in the factory and with a wide circle of friends; and to this popularity is due her success in the contest just closed.

Final Vote For Queen

Mamie Bowen	11.31
Alice Farnsworth	9.25
Bessie Wilcox	8.25
Adelaide Best	8.25
Anna Luke	2.39
Maudie Young	1.35

Michael Jackson	1.35
Grace Patterson	1.35
Katherine Phillips	1.35
Miss Madonn	1.35
Rose Wengert	1.35
Annie King	1.35

The James Boys in Missouri" at the Myers Grand next Thursday even-

NEWS OF THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Common Council Meet: Regular meeting of the common council this evening at 8 o'clock at the council chamber.

Go to Jail: John Maxon and Pat
Whitfield, the two Gentry showmen, who were arrested in Beloit a week ago, for assault and battery pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge P.
field this morning. They were both given twenty days in the county jail
to think it over.

Senator Whitehead's Talk: Sunday afternoon's meeting for men in the Y. M. C. A. building was attended by about fifty persons. Senator J. M.
Whitehead gave a very clear and straightforward address on "Practical faith."

His illustrations were very much in point and added great force to his talk, and went to show that faith is a matter of custom and habit, and that it is really gained by obtaining dexterity in its use. It is just as the first attempt of a mason's apprentice to lay brick. He will do a bungling job, and for a time it will seem as though he made but little progress.
Later on he will begin to gain skill,
and soon he will be an accomplished brick layer. After a time he will be ready to attempt any work because he has faith in his ability. After Mr.
Whitehead's address short but effective speeches were made by Anthony Wilkinson, and W. J. Knights. The music was led by a small orchestra.

Are Good Workmen: It has been proved by the work on the interurban road in Beloit that Austrians are as efficient a class of laborers as may be secured. With a force of about forty men of that nationality the rails have gone down at an astonishing rate of speed, and the central streets of the Line City are now torn up from one end to the other. Only once during the job have the men caused any trouble, and that was one night after a little too much bad whiskey on the night before, when they decided that they were not getting the wages to which they were entitled. They stopped work immediately on the refusal of their petition, and came back as soon as the liquor had worked itself off, and they had no money to buy more. As they are boarded in freight cars their accommodation is a simple matter. In one day they cover more ground than other laborers often have in two.

John McElroy was in Beloit on Saturday and Sunday.
